

Water Meter Tap Locks

Australia is a dry country. It is currently undergoing one of its driest periods on record.

In response to demand from water utilities, Lock Focus has devised a method of protecting water meters and taps from tampering.

The system comprises of two individual components:

- water meter security
- tap lock.

The water meter security system is a brass cover that prevents access to tamper with the meter itself.

The tap lock is designed to prevent access to the water tap itself.

Both components have been designed with the co-operation of the water authorities and comply with environmental standards for recycled water.
